

Life in the Marsh: A Freshwater Biome

A marsh is one of the three types of wetlands. The other two types are bogs and swamps.

Directions: Use the words in the word bank to label the animals in the marsh. If you aren't sure, do the ones you know first, and then look up the others in a dictionary.

muskrat	dragonflies	egret	marsh flies turtle	frog	cattails	crayfish snail	river otter	raccoon	fish tadpoles	mosquito larvae

